What was the original data collection initiative?

The data used was collected from 2016-2017 under the Initiative 2014-0090 Blood pressure in shift workers (BP-03): Assessing blood pressure variability and circadian rhythm in employees working in a clinical environment through health monitoring devices under free-living conditions.

What Personal Data are collected; Why are these Personal Data collected? With whom are Personal Data shared? How long will the Personal Data be kept?

What	Why	Whom	How long
Patient data (Health care information, questionnaires)	This information will aid in assessing and understanding the results obtained from analysing the physiological signals.	Philips	Data is deleted at the end of the study
Vital signs and physiological signals (Photoplethysmography, accelerometer, electrocardiogram, blood pressure, and other related parameters)	See section “What is the purpose and legal basis of processing?”	Philips	Data is deleted at the end of the study

To protect your privacy, all directly identifying data (example: name, medical record number, contact details) have been separated from the research data (such as measurement data) and replaced by a participant code. Results may be published without disclosing your identity.

What is the purpose and legal basis of the processing?

Based on your consent Philips processes your Personal Data for the following purposes:

- Exploratory analyses of the existing datasets will be done so that the researchers can familiarize themselves with these types of signals. Additionally, coding frameworks will be set up for extracting existing and possibly developing new features from these signals that are useful in assessing the cardiovascular system. The subject’s health data will be used to analyse and understand the results obtained from analysing these signals, enabling conclusions to be drawn within the right context.

Insofar as we have a legitimate interest, we may process your data for the following purposes:

- To aggregate and/or anonymize Personal Data, so that it will no longer be considered Personal Data. We can do so to generate other data for our use, which we may use and disclose for any purpose;
- To enforce our terms and conditions and to protect our rights, privacy, safety or property of our affiliates, you or others;

To comply with legal obligations Philips may process or disclose your data for the following purposes:

- For audits, to verify that our internal processes function as intended and are compliant with legal, regulatory or contractual requirements;
- To comply with applicable law - this can include laws outside of your country of residence;
- To respond to requests from public and government authorities, these can include authorities outside your country of residence;
- To cooperate with law enforcement, for example law enforcement requests and orders;
- We may also process or disclose your data to protect your or someone else's vital interests.

With whom do we share your Personal Data?

We may disclose your Personal Data:

- Our affiliates or subsidiaries for the purposes in this privacy notice. Affiliates all process data under the same set of Binding Corporate Rules (www.philips.com/privacy);
- To our third party service providers who provide services such as website hosting, data analysis, payment processing, order fulfilment, information technology and related infrastructure provision, customer service, email delivery, auditing and other services;

We seek to use reasonable organizational, technical and administrative measures to protect personal data within our organization. If you have reason to believe that your interaction with us is no longer secure, please immediately notify us in accordance with the “How can you contact us?” section below.

What are your rights?

If you would like to:

- Ask questions about how we handle personal data;
- Request to review, correct, update, suppress or restrict the use of your personal data;
- Request that your personal data be removed;
- Withdraw your consent (Only possible if the processing is based on your consent. It will not affect the lawfulness of processing based on your consent before the withdrawal);
- Object to our use of your personal data for our legitimate business interests;
- Request to receive an electronic copy of your personal data for purposes of transmitting it to another company (to the extent this right to data portability is provided to you by applicable law), please contact us via the details provided under the “How can you contact us?” section below. We will respond to your request consistent with applicable law.

In your request, please make clear what personal data you would like to have changed, whether you would like to have your personal data suppressed, or otherwise let us know what limitations you would like to put on our use of your personal data. For your protection, we only implement requests with respect to the personal data associated with the particular email address that you use to send us your request, and we may need to verify your identity before implementing your request. We will try to comply with your request as soon as reasonably practicable.

Please note that we need to retain certain information for recordkeeping purposes (e.g., there could be legal obligations to retain certain information, if so, you are not be able to change or delete the personal data provided until after the retention period in that respect has passed).

Updates to this Privacy Notice

We may change this privacy notice. The “Last update” legend at the top of this privacy notice indicates when it was last revised. Any changes will become effective when the revised privacy notice is made available (online if it was already online, otherwise mail or email). If the change to this privacy notice is indicative of a fundamental change to the nature of the processing (e.g. enlargement of the categories of recipients or introduction of transfers to third countries) or a change that may be relevant to and impact upon you, then we will inform you in advance of the change taking effect in an explicit and effective way.
